Packaging Matters!

If you've been doing online sales for any length of time, you know that packaging is often the first impression you make with your customers.

People want to be wowed by the box that arrives on their doorstep. It's not just the item inside the box that counts, consumers are looking at the whole unboxing experience and they have high expectations.

But effective packaging is more than just a beautiful presentation, consumers are looking for something else – namely a company that cares about the environment.
