About Us

Mr. P. Karunakaran is the man behind the establishment of our company- Coimbatore Engineering Enterprises. He laid the foundation stones in the year 1999 and today, we have become one of the leading manufacturers and suppliers of industrial furnaces that are either electrically heated or oil-fired. The product range includes Crucible Melting Furnaces, Electric Bell Furnaces, Hearth Furnaces, and Rotary Furnaces. These are ideal for installation in ferrous and non-ferrous melting units. Known for simple installation and less maintenance, all the furnaces are known for their higher output of the best quality.

The entire product range is designed according to the acceptable quality standards prevalent in India and other countries. The common applications of all industrial furnaces are in aluminum foundries, automotive component producers, captive heat-treaters, stamping and fastener companies, the iron industry, the steel industry, and others. In the market, we are one of the few exceptional companies that have converted diesel-fired furnaces into gas-fired ones according to the product quality and cost-effectiveness required by the client. We are progressing in the industry and with the passage of time, we have developed expertise in in-house product development, the latest machines, and software tools.
