

Industrial Warehouse Roof Structure

This image shows the interior roof structure of a large industrial warehouse or factory building. The ceiling is supported by a network of steel trusses painted in dark gray, while suspended support frames and beams are highlighted in yellow. The structure demonstrates a modern industrial design optimized for durability, open floor space, and load-bearing support. Natural light is visible at the far end of the building, and the side walls include evenly spaced openings for ventilation and lighting.