

Device Description:

This image shows a biometric attendance machine with a fingerprint scanner. A user is placing their finger on the scanner for identity verification or attendance marking. The device includes a display screen, numeric keypad, and indicator lights, commonly used in offices, schools, and workplaces for secure access and attendance management.