About Us

MIDWEST FOOD Technology is an Indian engineering and manufacturing company specialising in freezing, cooling and temperature-controlled food-processing systems for customers in India and international markets. What started with building one spiral freezer at a time has grown into a modern engineering and manufacturing facility where up to seven spiral freezer systems can be under production simultaneously. Today, MIDWEST is recognized as one of Indias leading spiral freezer manufacturers, combining practical food-processing expertise, advanced manufacturing capability and internationally competitive technology.

Midwest Food Technology based in Pune, Maharashtra, India, and founded in 2012, manufactures and supplies Spiral Freezer, Right Mixer, and E-Fryers. Midwest Food Technology feels providing quality machinery is just a portion of being able to serve customers well. The company will focus on building long-term relationships by identifying customers needs and offering appropriate equipment solutions. It emphasizes reliability and reactivity of the products, which enables customers to choose the appropriate machinery for the processing required. Midwest Food Technology is committed to being a reliable source for food processors and manufacturers, with a broad selection of food processing equipment. The company is still dedicated to modern food production with practical machinery, quality and solutions based on the customers.
