

Computerized Flat Knitting Machine

This image shows a computerized flat knitting machine used for manufacturing sweaters, scarves, collars, mufflers and other knitted garments. It features a computerized control panel, multiple yarn feeders, electric drive, automatic knitting operation, and is suitable for industrial textile production. The machine provides precise stitch control, consistent fabric quality, high production efficiency, and reliable performance for commercial knitting applications.

