About Us

Bhavani Copper Alloys is a leading manufacturer and supplier based in Mumbai, Maharashtra, India, established in 2006. We specialize in producing high-quality non-ferrous metal components engineered for durability, dimensional accuracy, and industrial reliability. With extensive experience in copper-based alloys, we serve diverse sectors including engineering, automotive, electrical, marine, and heavy machinery industries. Our focus remains on delivering components that meet technical specifications while ensuring consistent metallurgical properties and performance under demanding operating conditions.

Our product portfolio includes Casted Gunmetal Bushes, Phosphor Bronze Sleeve, Bare Copper Wire, Gunmetal Casting Bush and Brass Tube. Each product is manufactured using carefully selected raw materials and controlled casting processes to maintain structural integrity and mechanical strength. Our gunmetal bushes are known for wear resistance and load-bearing capability, while phosphor bronze sleeves provide excellent anti-friction properties. We also supply high-conductivity bare copper wires and precision-finished brass tubes suitable for industrial and electrical applications. We emphasize technical precision at every stage of production. Our manufacturing process incorporates modern casting techniques, machining accuracy, and strict inspection protocols. Chemical composition analysis and dimensional verification are conducted to ensure compliance with industry standards. By maintaining consistency in alloy formulation and production parameters, we deliver components that offer superior corrosion resistance, thermal stability, and long service life. Our commitment to quality ensures dependable performance across varied industrial environments.
