

Cap Making Machine

Cap Making Machine is an industrial machine designed for efficient and reliable production of caps used in various packaging applications. The machine is suitable for manufacturing plastic caps with consistent dimensions, accurate forming, and uniform finishing. It is built for continuous production and can help improve productivity while maintaining product quality. The robust construction, simple operating controls, and production-oriented design make it suitable for industrial manufacturing environments.