Sincore Quartz (Composite Granite) Kitchen sinks are manufactured from the finest quality of pure Quartz Silica Sand and Acrylic Resin. The 80% Quartz and 20% Resin ratio makes Sincore sinks durable, resilient and safe.

Why Natural Quartz Sand is important?

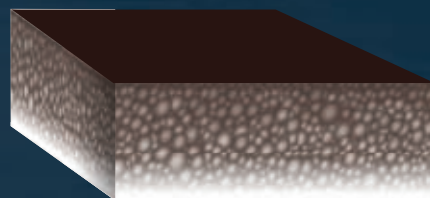

- Natural mineral of uniform particle size with no impurities.
- Uniform particle size of quartz sand enables proper pigmentation using state-of-the-art automatic machines that ensure each and every particle is thoroughly pigmented. This helps achieve color diversity that allows us to design and develop colourful and aesthetically alluring sinks for our customers.
- A hard nonmetallic mineral, Natural Quartz Sand is wear and stain resistant and durable. In combination with Acrylic resin, this material is harder and stronger than granite.

Why Acrylic Resin is important?

- Acrylic resin plays the role of a binding agent that bonds the quartz sand together and gives better toughness and resistance.
- Excellent transparency of Acrylic resin ensures that true colour of quartz sand is highlighted
- No Odour, Non toxic
- This illustration shows how Sincore quartz sinks are formed. The surface layer has higher density of quartz sand, which gives the sink it's scratch, heat and sound resistant properties.
- Such formation ensures the product formed is hard and durable
