Why do we need Anti-Microbial water tank?

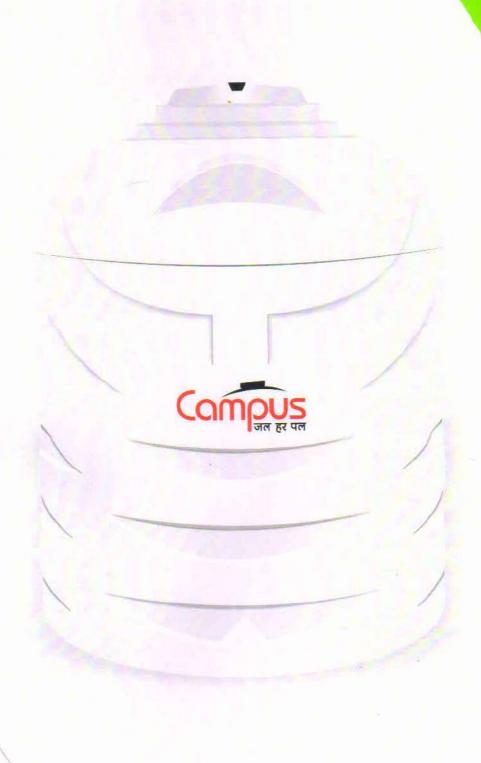

Antimicrobial properties are important in water storage because they help to prevent the growth of microorganisms that can cause spoilage or food poisoning. Microorganisms such as bacteria, fungi, and viruses can all grow in damp & dark conditions which are easily present in a water tank. It is important to note that while antimicrobial agents can be helpful in preventing the growth of microorganisms in water but they are not a substitute for proper water treatment, storage and cleaning practices.

How is Campus Tank Anti- Microbial Compliant?

Campus Plus tank have anti-microbial additives incorporated during the process of manufacturing itself. Powered by Active Silver Technology, Campus Plus possess an innate quality to prevent the growth of micro-organisms with an efficacy of 99%. This unique technology provides Antibacterial, Antialgae, Antifungal & Antiviral properties to the inner layer of tank keeping the water fresh and prevents growth of harmful microbes at all times.
